⁷ Based on op 19 ECOSOC resolution 2022/4; and op8 ECOSOC resolution 2001/2

Pp8 Emphasising the importance of implementation of the Beijing Declaration and Programme for Action at the national, regional and global levels and the need to ensure the Commission's effectiveness, relevance and impact to assist in that regard,

Pp9 Recalling in that regard the commitment contained in UN General Assembly resolution 79/1 of 22 September 2024 entitled "The Pact for the Future", for an inclusive intergovernmental process with the participation of all Member States, to explore options to revitalize the Commission on the Status of Women to promote the full and effective implementation of the Beijing Declaration and Platform for Action, to achieve gender equality and the empowerment of all women and girls, and to promote and protect their human rights and to ensure that the Commission is fit for purpose, while reaffirming the mandate of the Commission⁸,

1. Recommends that the General Discussion held during the Ministerial Segment of the Commission take place in the General Assembly Hall, subject to availability and the relevant approvals, in recognition of the high-level engagement and visibility of the Commission's deliberations;
2. Decides to include the Townhall Meeting of the United Nations Secretary-General and Civil Society in the Commission's Programme of Work, in view of the traditional importance of non-governmental organisations in the promotion of gender equality and the empowerment of women and girls and in accordance with its resolutions deciding that such organisations should be encouraged to participate, to the maximum extent possible, in the work of the Commission⁹;
3. Invites the Bureau of the Commission to circulate, in advance of the five-yearly sessions of the Commission on the Status of Women that are focussed on the review of commitments under the Beijing Declaration and Program for Action, a call for expressions of interest by States in hosting such session;
4. Recommends, in the context of its multi-year programme of work for a focussed and thematic approach¹⁰, that the Commission adopt outcome documents, including agreed conclusions on priority themes and political declarations, which are short and succinct, focused on recommendations for action-oriented, time bound and measurable steps and measures;¹¹
5. Requests the Bureau of the Commission, prior to the session, to continue to identify emerging issues, trends, focus areas or new approaches affecting the situation of women and girls, that require urgent consideration, in consultation with all Member States, through their regional groups, and taking into account inputs from other relevant stakeholders including the Working Group on the Communications Procedure and civil society, for consideration by the Commission”¹²;

6. Recommends, in the context of the Commission’s role to identify and make substantive recommendations on such emerging issues, that it organise and allocate an appropriate amount of time for a Ministerial roundtable on such emerging issues, trends, focus areas or new approaches¹³;
7. Requests the Working Group on Communications, in order to make the communications procedure more effective and efficient, to
 - a. Disseminate clear information on the procedure to ensure that persons or organisations making submissions understand its nature and scope
 - b. consider ways of making the existing procedure for receiving and considering communications, including the standard of admissibility, more transparent and efficient;
 - c. keep each communication received on its agenda until a response is received from the Member State referred to in the communication;
 - d. include in its report to the Commission metrics identifying the number of communications received on each of the thematic topics specified in its report, to assist with the identification of emerging issues and trends, while maintaining their confidential nature;
 - e. include in its report to the Commission such other metrics as are possible regarding communications received, while maintaining their confidential nature¹⁴;
8. Encourages members of the Commission to respond to the call for nominations from regional groups and serve as a member of the Working Group on Communications, in order to enable it to fulfil its functions;
9. Decides that, in order to further strengthen the review theme process, at each session, the Commission will evaluate progress in the implementation of [the agreed conclusions on a priority theme of a previous session / the Beijing Declaration and Programme for Action], through an interactive dialogue that includes:
 - (a) Member states of different regions, presenting their lessons learned, challenges and best practices that identify means for accelerated implementation through national and regional experiences; and

- (b) Ways to support and achieve accelerated implementation, including through addressing data gaps and challenges in the enhanced collection, reporting, use and analysis of data with regard to the theme, at the national, regional and global levels¹⁵;
10. Decides further that States should participate in such a review at least once during each term of membership of the Commission; and that Member States not being members of the Commission may participate on a voluntary basis;
11. Recommends that the Commission develop the modalities for this process at its 70th Session;
12. Reaffirms the catalytic role of the Commission in promoting and monitoring gender mainstreaming within the United Nations system by:
- a. [Expanding its cooperation and strengthening coordination] between the Commission and other relevant intergovernmental processes and functional commissions on a strategic basis, while avoiding fragmentation; and
 - b. enhancing coherence and complementarity with United Nations Human Rights mechanisms, including CEDAW and the Human Rights Council;
13. Encourages the Bureau, in that regard, to consider further steps to strengthen this catalytic role through, as appropriate, exchange of information and transmission of the outcomes of the Commission's work, joint informal interactive events, the participation of its Chair, in consultation with the Bureau, in relevant processes, or inclusion of relevant opportunities for interactive dialogue in the Programme of Work on cross-cutting issues, including inter alia violence against women¹⁶;
14. Maintain and enhance public awareness and support for the implementation of the Platform for Action¹⁷ by establishing an online platform with information on national and regional legislation, policies and action plans related to the 12 Critical Areas of Concern of the Beijing Declaration and Platform of Action;
15. Continues to encourage Governments and all other stakeholders to undertake comprehensive preparations for each session of the commission at the national, regional and global levels, as applicable, so as to strengthen the basis for follow-up to outcomes and implementation¹⁸;
